Rochdale

A connected town full of culture and heritage

At the foothills of the Pennines with the beautiful Peak District on its doorstep, Rochdale is becoming one of the most popular towns within Greater Manchester. Rochdale boasts semi-rural living with every amenity you need on the doorstep, this makes it an extremely desirable location when its coupled with quick City Centre connections thanks to great motorway access and regular public transport.

While all the big supermarkets are close to the town centre, Rochdale can also provide a unique shopping experience for those wanting something a bit different. The town has an eclectic mix of independent stores and high street retailers dotted around and there's the Rochdale Exchange Shopping Centre which is home to the brands you'll know and love. The Rochdale Open Market runs every week too, so you won't need to travel far to get hold of anything you need.

Families thinking about moving to Rochdale can be reassured that the education is top notch, with over 85% of the Borough's schools rated 'good' or 'outstanding'. Outside of education, families can keep their children entertained with energetic local places of interest including leisure centres, art galleries and rolling green land that is perfect for rambling.

People who don't have families and perhaps spend a little more time out and about will no doubt be kept busy thanks to the recent rejuvenation of Rochdale which has led to an outburst of new cafes, bars and restaurants. This new wave of entertainment is a great addition to the iconic heritage backdrop of Rochdale, including its grand cathedral.

Whoever you are and whatever your interests, Rochdale is a great space to live that can connect you to the world, thanks to it being so close by to Manchester City Centre and Manchester Airport.
